July 1, 2018 - 30th June 2019

Bombali Virus in Mops Condylurus Bat, Kenya [2]

Characterization of the Gential Mucosa Immune Profile to Distinguish Phases of the Menstrual Cycle: Implications for HIV Susceptibility [3]

Estimation of HIV-1 Viral Load in Plasma of HIV-1 infected People based on the Associated Raman Spectroscopic Peaks [4]

Global Distribution of Human Protoparvoviruses [5]

Impact of Standard Bacterial Vaginosis Treatment on the Genital Microbiota, Immune Millieu, and Ex Vivo Human Immunodeficiency Virus Susceptibility [6]

Increased Cervical CD4+CCR5+T Cells among Kenyan Sex Working Women Using Depot Medroxyprogesterone Acetate [7]

Using safe, affordable and accessible non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs to reduce the number of HIV target cells in the blood and at the female genital tract [8]

Source URL: https://unitid.uonbi.ac.ke/content/july-1-2018-30th-june-2019

Links: